MICHIGAN-CORNELL GAME IS CENTER OF
INTEREST IN WEST

Is One of Few Big Games Matches
There Tomorrow—Carlisle and Harvard Meet in Cambridge.

Chicago, Ill., Nov. 10.—Few big games are scheduled for tomorrow on the college gridirons in the middle West. Some of the leading teams, including Wisconsin and Minnesota, have left the state open in order to better prepare for the big contests that will close the season. Others will keep in trim for the big games of the next two or three weeks by lining up against weaker opponents. Interest hereabouts will center largely in the result of the intercollegiate contest between the University of Michigan and Cornell. The University of Chicago will meet Northwestern at Evanston, and Illinois and Indiana Universities will play at Indianapolis. Others of tomorrow's games that will attract attention in their respective localities will be those of Wabash and Iowa Polytechnic at La Fayette, Missouri, and Washington University at St. Louis, Northwestern and Deane College at Lincoln and Kansas and Oklahoma at Lawrence.

On Eastern Gridirons.
New York, Nov. 10.—Tomorrow's games are expected to go far towards determining "Who's Who" among the eastern football teams for the season of 1911. Though the schedule does not provide for anything equal in interest and importance to Princeton-Harvard game of last Saturday or the Yale game of last Saturday or the Princeton-Yale game of next week it calls for a number of contests that will attract the attention of all followers of the sport. Yale and Brown will meet at New Haven and it is conceded that the Elis will have to play some to score a victory over the strong eleven from Rhode Island. The Carlisle Indians have developed one of the best teams they have had in years and are counted upon to give Harvard a hard tussle when they meet in the Cambridge stadium. Princeton expects to have a comparatively easy time with Dartmouth and Pennsylvania hopes to improve its record of the season by defeating Lafayette. Michigan and Cornell will line up for their annual contest and some of the wisest critics are predicting a victory for the Ann Arbor institution. The Army will have Bucknell College for an opponent and the Navy will play the University of West Virginia.

Student Missionary League.
Milwaukee, Wis., Nov. 10.—The Georgia Normal and Industrial college is playing host to the Georgia Sta-dents' Missionary League, which met for its sixth annual convention here today. The league embraces twenty-five colleges and schools and is the largest representative body of college students in the South. The convention will last three days and will be devoted to the discussion of all phases of missionary work.

BADGER ELEVEN IS

Soggy Condition of Camp Randall
Makes Greenward Practice For Practice—Make Important Shifts.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE]
Madison, Wis., Nov. 10.—Driven from Camp Randall by a near quagmire, the Wisconsin eleven retreated to the greenward near agricultural hall for their daily workout yesterday. It is said that the work gave general satisfaction and that the players themselves were greatly pleased with the results of the drill. Van Diver is picked as Pollock's successor at right halfback. Some other important shifts are said to be due. "Jimmy" Bush, 1905 captain, helped out on the coaching line for the first time. If the field should be dry a week from tomorrow, the advantage will be the home team's; if it is soggy the heavier Gophers will have it. It is generally conceded that much will depend upon the condition of the field. Minnesota money in lots of several hundred dollars has come down from the northland and more is said to be on the way. Most of it is placed 3 to 2 on Minnesota, but Badger adherents want better odds than that.

The strictest secrecy will surround the Badger practice every day from now on. Little news of the daily routine emanates from the field and the coaches are more reticent about talking than ever before. For all of which there is method.

To Be Cuban Game Now.
New York, Nov. 10.—A baker's dozen of the New York Giants bade adieu to Broadway today and set sail for the land of cigars and senoritas. The contenders in the recent world's series plan to spend a good part of the winter in Cuba playing exhibition games with the Cuban league teams.

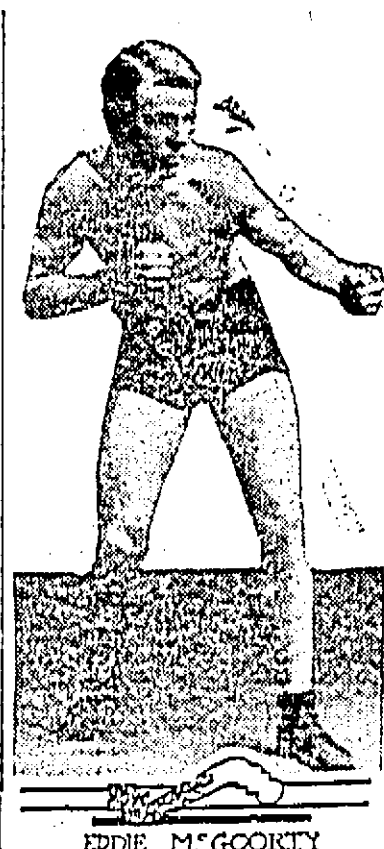

Booming Panama-Pacific Show.
Phoenix, Ariz., Nov. 10.—A large delegation representing the San Francisco Commercial club has arrived here to participate in the celebration of Panama-Pacific International exposition day, which is to be observed at the Arizona State Fair tomorrow.

Establishes some claim to middleweight championship.

Boxing News.—By defeating Billy Papko in the much-discussed Boston match of October 3rd, Bob Mohr, the Milwaukee batter, established a more or less secure claim to the middleweight championship title. Mohr is now going after Sailor Burke, Hugo Kelly, Frank Klaus, and all others who declare themselves contenders for the middleweight title and after this series of fights is over there will no longer be any question about the championship.

A Natural Question.
"Hubby, I'm going in for the simple life a while." "All right, my dear," said Hubby, as he reached for his check book. "How many gowns will that require?"

EDDIE MCGOOKY

CLEVER MIDDLEWEIGHT BOXER.

Indianapolis, Ind.—The fourth meeting between Eddie McGooky, the Oshkosh, Wis., middleweight boxer, and Jack Dillon of this city to a ten-round draw brought out the cleverness of McGooky and his staying qualities to a remarkable degree. While the paper victory was given to Dillon, McGooky outpointed him in many of the rounds.

"Gosh!" exclaimed the old man, "I'd spend less money on my bonnet and buy some socks."—Cherryvale (Kan.) Journal.

REASONS WHY

You should invest your surplus money in MORTGAGE LOANS and not in bond issues.

Millions of dollars in bonds have been repudiated.

Interest rates are too low for you to invest in bond issues.

Too much time is required to investigate the legality of bond issues.

In case of default on municipal bonds years are required to recover judgment.

If you are a citizen of the community you help to pay your own security.

If you buy a mortgage loan you own the property on one only condition—that the debt is paid when due.

In case of default you get your security in a short space of time, without further expense to you.

In case of mortgage loan the investment is direct and simple and is subject to your control.

CIRCUIT COURT HAS A QUIET SESSION

Many Cases Settled Without Being Brought Up For Trial.

Today was a quiet one in circuit court, the only work being done was the empanelling of two juries to act on accident cases against the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railway. The cases for which juries were drawn will be placed on trial at the convenience of the plaintiff and defendant, which will be probably tomorrow or some time next week.

The Recorder Case.
One of the cases on the day calendar whose outcome has been watched with interest was that of Lillian Decker, plaintiff, versus the Recorder Printing company, defendant. The curious will not, however, have the opportunity of listening to the evidence as the case was settled out of court yesterday.

This suit is the outcome of the recent contest for prizes for securing votes held by the Recorder Printing company last spring. The plaintiff in the action, Lillian Decker, a daughter of John Decker, entered the contest from one of the divisions laid out by the contest manager as the East Side district. The prize offered was to be a trip to the Bermudas, valued at about $100.

Districts Merged.
Later the districts were merged and one of the contestants from the West Side was put over into Miss Decker's district and allowed to count all the votes given her in the West Side district the same as though obtained in the East Side district. With this aid she was awarded the first prize, Miss Decker being second highest.

The plaintiff brought the action on the grounds the Recorder had no right to transfer the contestant and the votes to another district, having prior to that time allowed her to collect votes in a different district.

Given Damages.
The case was heard before Judge Tallman in justice court and a decision awarded the plaintiff, the amount, by stipulation, being fifty dollars. It was appealed by the defendant printing company to the appellate court and was on the day calendar when settled out of court to the satisfaction of the plaintiff.

Walking in the Dark.

It is curious how many people acquire black eyes by walking carelessly around in the dark. Since bruised eyes may cause serious trouble, some precaution such as the following would be quite worth while: When walking in the dark in unaccustomed places always raise the arm to about the level of the nose and keep it bent there to protect the face and chest.

PERSONAL MENTION.

Mrs. Amos Prichard of South Main street for the last week has been confined to her home by a severe cold.

THE GREAT AMERICAN PLAY

"PAID IN FULL"

Among the many distinctive features of Eugene Walter's "Paid in Full" is the fact that it is the story of a man who is anything but heroic. That is, the leading man, who is usually the hero in a play, is really the villain in "Paid in Full." Herodotus is not lacking in "Paid in Full." Men and women possess the quality, but there is not a spark of it in the leading man. He is Joe Brooks, an $18 a week clerk, who, in resentment at not being advanced in business, steals from his employer. When he is found out he tries to shift the blame on his young wife and to sacrifice her to gain immunity from punishment. There have been many plays in which the leading man has shown a bad streak at one time or another, though in the end he has redeemed himself by proving of the right sort. Not so Joe Brooks. He carries viciousness and cowardliness to the very finish, unredeemed by one glimpse of heroism, until the time, when, face to face with his employer, Capt. Williams, he openly and strongly expresses his opinion of him and of his methods.

Certain analysts, though have seen a vein of generosity in Brooks. No

That it has scored a great end and attained unprecedented popularity in the process is convincingly demonstrated by its career.

More persons have seen "Paid in Full," more companies have played it than any other piece in theatrical history. C. S. Primrose is maintaining this season the five companies that played "Paid in Full" all last season, each of which has to its credit a New York engagement, and one of which will be at the Myers Theatre Saturday, Nov. 11, matinee and evening.

MOULIN ROUGE GIRLS CO.

Many in fact most of the patrons of burlesque are familiar with the names of Lew Golden and Joe Collins through their having been members of that well known company, the Monte Carlo Girls for the past five years and to them they need no introduction, except to state that they are now with the Moulin Rouge Girls, a brand new show from start to finish, new burlesques, and the latest and best of the current song hits, surrounded by a heavy of beautiful maidens, who can sing and dance, also some of the best vaudeville acts in the country, and a brand new novel, dance imported from Paris, France, called "The Girl in the Window."

They will be at the Myers Theatre Monday evening Nov. 13.

Lew Dockstader and his great Minstrel will be seen at the Myers Theatre Wednesday, Nov. 15. It is an absolute fact that the genial Lew is always putting up some new stunt, and this season he is living up to his reputation by introducing Roy La Pearl, the man with the biggest musical voice in the world, who will sing from the roof of the Myers Hotel at high noon, Wednesday, Nov. 15. La Pearl is one of the baritone soloists with Dockstader's Minstrels, and has a voice of most remarkable power. Dockstader's band will be stationed on the street, and there will be a musical duo between La Pearl atop of the building and the band on the ground below. La Pearl has sung from the high tower at Luna Park, Coney Island, the roof of the Masonic Temple in Chicago and from atop of skyscrapers throughout the country.

SOUSA AND HIS BAND.

Innumerable as are the bands that bid for public favor both in this country and on the other side of the Atlantic, none has ever reached the artistic level attained by Sousa. The organization of which he is the head and front comes within the narrow category of the bands that really count—by reason of its technical efficiency, its rare unity of purpose and action, and the commanding influence and individuality of its leader. In the particular department of musical thought and expression, Sousa occupies a noteworthy position, while as a pickled combination of brass and wood his band may confidently claim superiority over any other organization on similar lines. The date arranged for the appearance here of Sousa and his Band is on Saturday evening, Nov. 18, at the Myers Theatre.

Daily Thought.
Education begins the gentleman; but reading, good company and reflection must finish him.—Locke.

"SNOW WHITE" GIVEN WITH GOOD SUCCESS

Operetta at St. Mary's Hall Last Night Pleasingly Rendered and Well Attended.

"Snow White," an operetta based on one of Grimm's fairy tales, was given at the parish hall of St. Mary's church last evening to a large and highly appreciative audience. The cast was well selected and trained by Miss Lillian Longmeyer, and the characters were well portrayed. The solos revealed some very promising voices and the instrumental music was also satisfying. Miss Gertrude McGilley was pianist; Prof. Thiele played the violin; and Mr. Benkert, the drums. Many pronounced "Snow White" the best production of its kind ever staged in Janesville. The characters represented, and those who took the parts were:

"Princess Snow White," Camilla Thiele.
"Queen," Mrs. Lawrence Whittel Thiele.
"Arbutus," Adelaide Thiele.
"Daffodil," Loretta Bennett.
"Violet," Ethel Walker.
"Prince," Lawrence Thiele.
"Carl, the Huntsman," John Brennan.

"The Seven Dwarfs," Messrs. McDermott, Thiele, McCarthy, Thiele, Zakolsky, Weickert, McDermott.
Chorus of "Forest Children,"
Chorus of the "Fairies."

A forest scene is represented in the first act. "Snow White," to properly celebrate her birthday has gathered the "Forest Children." Solos are sung by "Snow White" and the "Queen." The latter becomes jealous of the beauty of "Snow White" and after consulting her magic mirror, she decides to take her life.

The second act opens in the forest as before. "Carl, the Huntsman" has captured "Snow White" and intends to murder her, but he loses heart and leaves her alone in the forest. The meeting between the two is very pathetic, and the duet of the "Prince" and "Carl" drew forth hearty and well merited applause.

"The Dwarfs' Home" in the woods is the scene of Act 3. It opens with one of the "Dwarfs" finding "Snow White" asleep in his bed, her appeal that she be allowed to stay there and make her home with them. Two attempts are made by the "Queen" to take "Snow White's" life, but each time they are frustrated by the arrival of one of the dwarfs. Finally the "Prince" finds "Snow White" and they are betrothed.

The grand finale comes in the last act, the scene being the palace of the "Prince."
"Snow White" will be given a second time tonight.

PILOT OF MISSISSIPPI BOAT A WOMAN.

St. Louis, Mo.—Mrs. Wyllia Hulet, master and pilot of the good ship Mary is off up the Illinois River after another cargo of supplies after unloading at Alton a thousand barrels for the New Orleans market. Old steamboat men who are eager to haul the same apples are crowding on extra steam to prevent Capt. Hulet from getting her share of the business and part of the profits.

Capt. Hulet is a hustler and she is out for apples. The only way to keep her from getting them is to beat her to them. Mrs. Hulet is master and pilot of the Mary because she can tell one color from another and her husband cannot. Incidentally she is her husband's boss for he being color blind, has to be content with the subordinate position of engineer. Besides her husband Mrs. Hulet is boss of eight other men. Upore she became a steamboat master she was a school teacher in Calhoun county.

"A Perfect Saw."

"To say nothing and saw wood," seems to me one of the most enigmatical phrases passed down by our hard working forefathers. Like most sayings which have emanated from manual labor, this is blunt, homely, and, to the laconically inclined, painfully accurate. Show me a man bent jack-knife-fashion over a saw-horse, with a short log under his back, and I will point out a man who is infusing his own business with admirable zeal. If he must speak, he ceases to saw. While he saws he is necessarily mute. Hence this shrewd phrase, which is, punning aside, a perfect saw.—Atlantic.

(Observations taken at 8 a. m., twenty-fifth meridian time, all stations, as mentioned here, pass through points of equal temperature, or dotted lines, pass through points of equal precipitation, they will be drawn only for sun, wind, etc., and not for humidity, etc.)

Effect of Weather.

The effect of the weather upon crystallization is certain. When it is dry the crystals are large and well defined; when it rains or there is a damp wind the salt crystallizes in fine grains; or again, rain will stop the crystallization entirely or retard it for many days. Even after crystallization has taken place in lumps as large as hazelnuts a damp wind or a rain will reduce the whole mass to a fine granular state.

"I thought you sold your automobile?" "No," replied Farmer Cornsoul, "I traded the machine off for that horse over there." "But you seem to have both the auto and the horse." "Yes, I made a contract that he was to give me the hankie the machine out every time he got stuck or broke down. Finally he owed me so much that he turned the auto back as part payment."

DRIP PAN HAS ALARM

Bell Rings When Water is Nearly High Enough to Flow Over.

It is annoying at any time to have the drip pan of the refrigerator overflow, but it is more annoying when the refrigerator happens to be on an upper floor of a flat or apartment house and the water ruins the plaster and wall paper of the room below. A Minnesota man has patented a most ingenious contrivance to prevent this accident in a drip pan which is equipped with an alarm bell. The bell is on the front of the pan just over the edge, inside, a float is suspended.

KITCHEN TABLE

One Flap of Top Forms Back and Drawers Are at Ends.

A kitchen table that answers many purposes has been designed by an Indiana inventor. The top has two hinged flaps, like most kitchen tables, but while one folds down in front the other folds up into a vertical position and forms a back on which a mirror hangs. Of course, when more room is needed, both flaps can be fastened in a horizontal position. Then, instead of having an open space beneath, this table has a cabinet built beneath it with drawers at both ends.

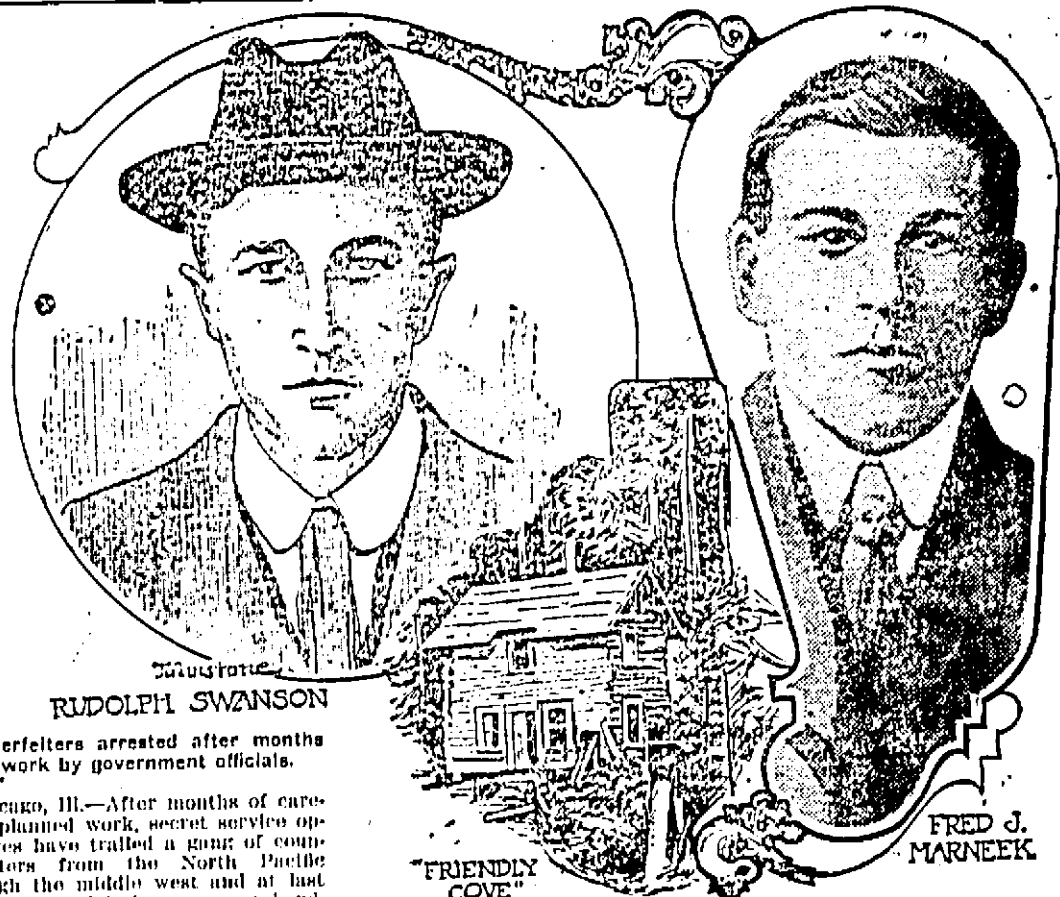

EVERYTHING WITHIN REACH.

There are drawers for all the various utensils, except large pots and pans, that the cook needs, and these things are always within reach so that she need not leave the table and go to the cupboard for a spoon or the salt. There are also slides just below the top at both ends, like the sliding boards in a desk, and these are handy to cut bread or cake on.

FURTHER INFORMATION RE- GARDING THE GAZETTE'S GREAT PRIZE CAMPAIGN HOW VOTES ARE OBTAINED

REMEMBER, NO LOSERS AND DISAPPOINTED ONES AS IS USUALLY THE CASE.

Candidates in sending votes by mail are hereby cautioned to put sufficient postage on them. Because of the writing they must be sent as first class matter.

Votes in the prize campaign are obtained in the following manner:

Each issue of The Gazette contains a coupon. This coupon sent to the Campaign Manager, with the name written on it for the candidate for whom it is intended, will add 10 votes to her credit. The candidates may send them in for themselves or any person may send them in for a candidate. They must be sent on or before the date which is printed on them. They may be sent in one at a time or all at once. It makes no difference where they come from or how they reach the ballot box, just so each coupon has on it the name of the candidate for whom it is intended.

2nd, by the Nomination Blank.

Each issue of The Gazette also contains a nomination blank. Every nomination blank voted for a candidate adds 25 votes to her credit. If it is voted for a lady already nominated (that is, her name appears in the list of candidates), all that is necessary on the blank is the candidate's name. A candidate may vote them for herself or a friend may vote them for a candidate. Remember, each nomination blank found in the ballot box adds 25 votes to the credit of the candidate for whom it is intended. In nomination blanks as well as coupons, it makes no difference who votes them, how they reach the ballot box or where they come from, just so they are in the ballot box with the name of the candidate on them, for whom they are intended. All nomination blanks are to be voted on or before (date to be made known later).

3rd, by Subscription Payments.

Votes are given on every subscription payment of $1.25 or more. A subscriber may pay his subscription money to a candidate or may send it directly to The Gazette office. When a candidate receives the money she should give the subscriber a receipt, then send the money, with the receipt, to the Campaign Manager. When he receives the money he will make out and also give a ballot, good for the votes due to the candidate and also give the subscriber his proper credit. The ballot of votes that the candidate receives in return for subscription payment, may be held back by her, and voted when she wishes. When the ballot is voted, her standing in the paper will be increased. These ballots may be held up to the last day, consequently no one but the candidate herself knows how many votes she has.

When the subscriber pays at The Gazette office the ballot is mailed to any candidate, as the subscriber directs.

When a candidate mails money she has collected, to The Gazette it should be sent by check or postoffice money order.

Votes are given on subscription payments, according to the scale of votes as published in The Gazette.

Any candidate may receive coupons, nomination blanks or subscription payments from persons living outside of the county as well as in the county.

The prizes have all been purchased and will soon be on exhibition. Although this great event is just starting it will close in a little over six weeks. Each candidate should request her friends to save all their votes for her.

Remember, The Gazette has absolutely nothing to say about the awarding of these elegant prizes. That is up to the candidates and their friends.

All candidates competing and not winning one of the regular prizes will receive a cash commission of 5 percent of all the money they collect.

Open Evenings.

For the benefit of those who can not call during regular office hours, the campaign department will remain open until 8 p. m. each week day evening.

Subscription Books. Candidates and their friends are privileged to accept payments on subscriptions and in order that they may receive such payments we will provide them with a receipt book if they will inform the campaign department.

SIDEWALK SKETCHES

THE STAR BOARDER.

The star boarder is a half way station between poverty and affluence. After a man has been fed on boarding house hash and stewed prunes for a few melancholy years, he won't be able to tell a table d'hôte from a table d'auvent. The star boarder is distinguished from the rest of the species by a hopeless look and a penchant for the neck of the chicken. He always pays in advance and occupies a seat next to the landlady, who is thus enabled to see how many lumps of sugar he consumes in his coffee. The star boarder never asks for a second helping without a voiceless prayer and an apologetic look. He is lost in admiration when a nervous newcomer passes up his plate for the third trip with the abundance of a light-headed dinner on a plate of pale soup and an Early Rose potato that was stunted in early childhood, thus setting a good example to the other boarders and encouraging abstemiousness in the use of kindred coffee and (cheap) paper bacon. No one ever heard of a star boarder who had to let out his belt as the result of feverish contact with the mid-day feast. He may as well as an Alpine goat when pursuing a triple-plated knife and fork through a thoughtful of corned beef and cabbage, but he never overdoes the matter. The star boarder is rarely approached at his true worth.

Being Original and Being Queer.

What Not to Do With Lemon.
We read of scores of uses of the lemon, but I have learned to my sorrow what not to do with it. Do not cut a lemon on marble, oilcloth, porcelain, or enamel, or allow the juice to stand on those places.—Good Housekeeping.

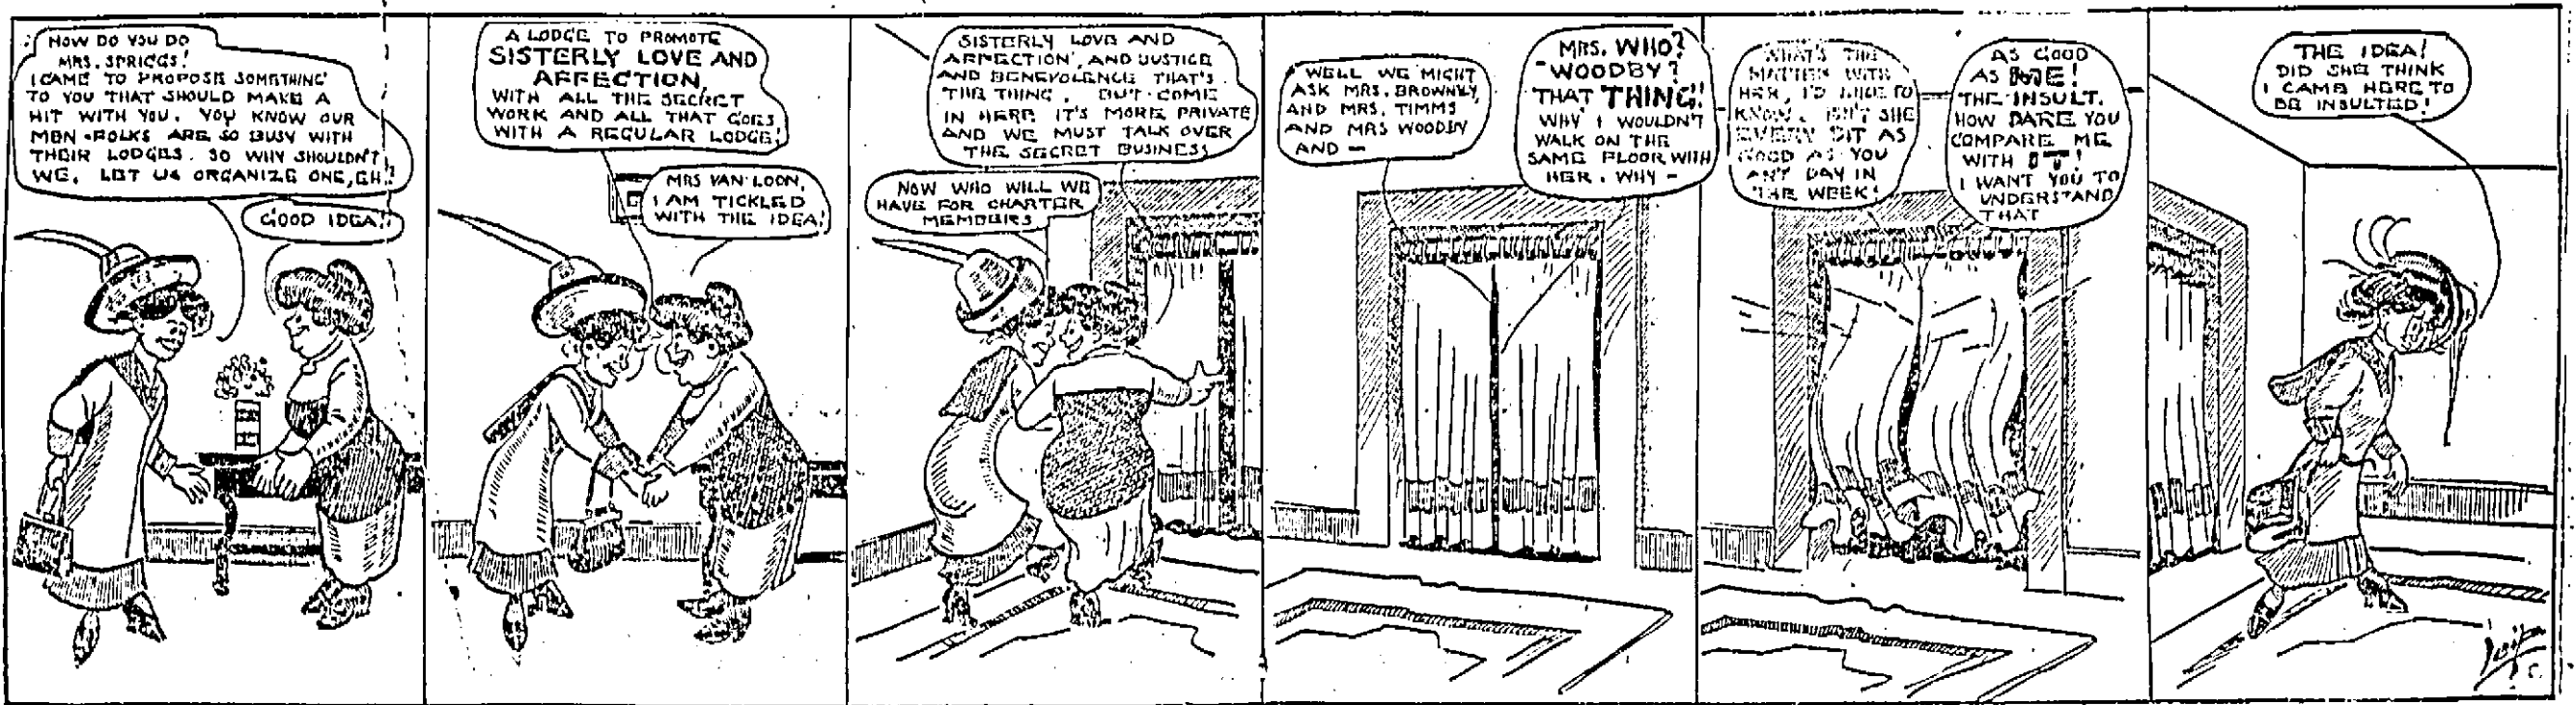

"The road is fierce," one pilgrim said, complaining: "the doggone birds are most absurdly high; it's always storming when I can't run, and the storms are bringing in the northern gale. The road is fierce; its obstacles fright me, my feet are full of sand-burs and the like, and the farmers' dogs come running out to bite me, and so, methinks, I'll cease to hit the pike. I'll sit just here upon this granite boulder, and wait and watch, and hope for better things, and passing pilgrims, stronger far and bolder, may give me handouts as they come, by flukes." "The road is good," another pilgrim said, serenely: "I like hills, they test my wind and brawn." Then on he skipped with carriage high and queue, heart unafraid, and for a while he sang glad songs, and he cut up happy didos when he met a man he won a friend; he braved the storms and chased the barking didos, and won the gaudon at the journey's end.

 Asked what was the bravest deed he had ever seen, Lord Roberts said he remembered that while he was on his way to Lucknow his force was ^{attacked} by a well equipped. A little soldier, a Punjabi Mohammedan, seeing the difficulty, endeavored to open the door which barred their way. When he tried first to draw the bolt one of his hands was cut off by one of the enemy; then he managed to unscrew the bolt with his other hand, which was subsequently nearly covered from the wrist.

For Mending Enamelware.
To mend a hole which has been made in an enamel pan the following is a very effective: Take equal parts sifted coal and sifted table salt, mix together and pack into the hole. Place the pan on the stove with a little water in it until the cement hardens. It will soon become as hard as the enamel itself.

MISS MINERVA and WILLIAM GREEN HILL

By FRANCES BOYD CALHOUN

(Copyright by Kelly & Britton Co.)

"Yes," cried Jimmy, as the black woman dragged him kicking and struggling through the hall, "two's all heroes, but I bet the heroiest hero is me, and I bet Miss Minerva's going to be mad 'bout you all spilling all that blood on her nice clean floor."

"Lemme see yo' big too what was shot off by all them Yankees and Indians what you killed in the war," said Billy to Miss Minerva's beau.

The major smiled at the little boy; a man-to-man smile, full of good comradeship, humor and understanding. Billy's little heart went out to him at once.

"I can't take off my shoes at present," said the veteran. "Well, I must be going; I feel all right now."

Billy looked at him with big, solemn eyes.

"You couldn't never go 'bout yo' pants, could you?" he asked, "cause Aunt Minerva jest nuchelly despises pants."

The man eyed him quizzically.

"Well, no; I don't think I could," he replied; "I don't think I'd look any better in a Mother Hubbard or a kimono."

The little boy sighed.

"Which you think is the fittestest name," asked he, "Billy or William?"

"Billy, Billy," enthusiastically came the reply.

"I like mens," said William Green Hill. "I sho' wish' you could come and live right here with me and Aunt Minerva."

"I wish so, too," said the major.

CHAPTER XV.

Billy, the Credulous.

After the advent and disappearance of the exciting Mr. Jones, Miss Minerva, much to Billy's joy, had a telephone put in the house. He sat in the hall the day it was put in waiting for it to ring.

Jimmy, coming up on the front porch and through the half-open door and seeing him sitting there, rang the door bell just for a joke, ready to burst into a laugh when the other little boy turned around and saw who it was. Billy, however, in his eagerness mistook the ring for the telephone bell and joyfully climbed up on the chair, which he had stationed in readiness. He took down the receiver as he had seen Jimmy do in his home, and, without once seeing that little boy standing a few feet from him, he yelled at the top of his lungs:

"Hello! Who is that?"

"This is Major Yarbrough," replied Jimmy from the doorway, instantly recognizing Billy's mistake.

Major Yarbrough was a little girl much admired by the two boys, as she had a pony and a cat of her very own. However, she lived in a different part of the town and attended another Sunday school, so they had no speaking acquaintance with her.

"I jus' wanted to talk to you," went on the counterfeited Marie, stifling a laugh and trying to talk like a girl. "I think you're 'bout the sweetest little boy there is and I want you to come to my party."

"I sho' will," screamed the gratified Billy, "if Aunt Minerva'll lemme. What makes you talk so much like Jimmy?"

"Who?—that little old Jimmy Garner? I hope I don't talk like that chicken; he's 'bout the meanest boy that is and I like you 'nother sight better'n him. You're a plumb jimdandy, Billy," came from the doorway.

"So's you," howled back the delighted and flattered Billy.

Jimmy thought he would pop wide open in his efforts to keep from laughing.

"How'd you like to be my sweet-heart?" he asked.

"I's already promised to marry Miss Cecilia when I puts on long pants, but if we ever gets a 'voce I'd 'nother sight rather have you 'n anybody. You can be my lady friend, anyhow," was the loud reply.

"I'm coming for you to go riding in my little pony and cart," said a giggling Jimmy.

"All right, I's going to ask Aunt Minerva to lemme go. Can't we take

This was too much for the little boy. He had held himself in as long as possible. He burst into a peal of laughter so merry and so loud that Billy, turning quickly, almost fell out of the chair.

"What you doin', n-listening to me talk to Marie Yarbrough th'oo the telephone?" he questioned angrily.

"Marie you pig's foot," was the indignant response. "That was just me a-talking to you all the time. You all time think you talking to little girls and all times 't n't nobody but me."

A light dawned on the innocent one. He promptly hung up the receiver and got down out of the chair. Before Jimmy was fully aware of his intention, Billy had thrown him to the floor and was giving him a good pommeling.

"Say you got 'nough?" he growled from his position astride of the other boy.

"I got 'nough, Billy," repeated Jimmy.

"Say you sorry you done it."

"I say I sorry I done it," abjectly repeated the younger child. "Get up, Billy, fore you bust my stomach open."

"Say you ain't never agoin' to tell nobody, cross yo' heart," was the next command.

"I say I ain't never going to tell nobody, cross my heart. Get up, Billy, fore you makes me mad, and ain't no telling what I'll do to you if I got mad."

"Say you's a low-down Jezebel skunk."

"I ain't going to say I'm nothing of the kind," spiritedly replied the under dog. "You all time wanting somebody to call therselves somepin. You're a low-down Isabella skunk yourself."

"You got to say it," insisted the victor, renewing hostilities.

"I'll say I'm a Isabella, 'cause Isabella discovered America, and's in the Bible," replied the tormented one; "Miss Cecilia 'splained it to me."

Billy accepted his compromise and Jimmy's flattened stomach, relieved of its burden, puffed out to its usual roundness as that little boy rose to his feet, saying:

"Sam Lamb would 'n' die a-laughing, Billy, if he'd seen yo' telephoning."

"He'd better never hear tell of it," was the threatening rejoinder.

CHAPTER XVI.

The Humble Petition.

Billy, sitting in an old huggy in front of the livery stable, had just engaged in a long and interesting conversation with Sam Lamb. He was getting out of the vehicle when the sharp who around the broken rod caught in the back of his trousers and tore a great hole. He felt a tingling pain and looked over his shoulder to investigate. Not being satisfied with the result, he turned his back to the negro and anxiously inquired: "Is my breeches tore, Sam?"

"Dey am dat," was the reply, "dey am busted I'm Dan ter Boersheba."

"What I goin' to do 'bout it?" asked the little boy. "Aunt Minerva sho' will be mad. These here's bran-spankin' new trousers what I ain't never wore tell today. Ain't you got a needle an' thread so's you can fix 'em, Sam?"

"Nary er needle," said Sam Lamb. "Is my union suit tore, too?" asked Billy again turning his back for inspection.

His friend made a close examination.

"Yo' union is injured plum scary-ous," was his discouraging decision.

"and hit 'bouta ter me dat yo' hild done suffer, too; you's got er terrible scratch."

The child sighed. The injury to the flesh was of small importance—he could hide that from his aunt—but the rent in his trousers was a serious matter.

"I wish I could get 'em mended fore I goes home," he said wistfully.

"I tell you what do," suggested Sam. "I 'low Miss Cecilia'll help yeh; jest go by her house an' she'll darn 'em up for yeh."

Billy hesitated.

"Well, you see, Sam, me an' Miss Cecilia's engaged an' we's skin' to marry jes' a soon's I put on long pants, an' I 'shame to ask her. An' I don't believe young 'omans patches the breeches of young mens what they's goin' to marry now. Do you? Aunt Minerva ain't never patched no breeches for the major. And then, with a modest blush, "my union is tore, too, an' I ain't got nothin' else to hide my skin."

Again he turned his back to his friend and, his clouded little face looking over his shoulder, he asked: "Do my most show, Sam?"

"She am vible ter the naked eye," and Sam Lamb laughed loudly at his own wit.

"I don't believe God pays no much attention now," said the little boy dolefully; "ev'ry day I gets put to bed 'cause sumpin's all time a-happenin'."

If he'd had an eye on too like he ought, or they wouldn't a been no anagin'. Aunt Minerva's goin' to be mad th'oo an' th'oo."

"May be my ol' 'oman can fix 'em, so's dey won't be so terrible bad," suggested the negro, "in't fer, so you jes' run down ter my cabin an' tell Sukey I say fix dem breeches."

The child needed no second bidding—he fairly flew. Sam's wife was cooking, but she cheerfully stopped her work to help the little boy. She sewed up the union suit and put a bright blue patch on his brown linen breeches.

Billy felt a little more cheerful, though he still dreaded confessing to his aunt, and he loitered along the way till it was nearly dark. Supper was ready when he got home and he walked into the dining room with his customary ease and grace. But he took his seat uneasily, and he was so quiet during the meal and ate so little that his aunt asked him if he was sick. He was planning in his mind how to break the news of the day's disaster to her.

"You are improving, William," she remarked presently, "you haven't got into any mischief today. You have been a mighty good little boy now for two days."

Billy flushed at the compliment and blurted unthinkingly in his seat. That patch seemed to burn him.

"If God'd jest do his part," he said darkly, "I wouldn't never sit in no meanness."

After supper Miss Minerva washed the dishes in the kitchen sink and Billy carried them back to the dining room. His aunt caught him several times prancing sideways in the most idiotic manner. He was making a valiant effort to keep from exposing his rear elevation to her; once he had to walk backward.

"William," she said, sharply, "you will break my plates. What is the matter with you tonight?"

A little later they were sitting quietly in Miss Minerva's room. She was reading "The Christian at Home," and he was absently looking at a picture book.

"Sam Lamb's wife Sukey sho' is a beautiful patcher," he remarked, feeling his way.

She made no answering comment, and the discouraged little boy was silent for a few minutes. He had worn Aunt Cindy's many-colored patches too often to be ashamed of this one for himself, but he felt that he would like to draw his aunt out and find how she stood on the subject of patches.

"Aunt Minerva," he presently asked, "what sorter patches'd you rather wear on yo' pants; blue patches or brown?"

HELPFUL HINTS ON HAIR HEALTH

Scalp and Hair Troubles Generally Caused by Carelessness

Dandruff is a contagious disease caused by a microbe which also produces baldness. Never use a comb or brush belonging to some one else. No matter how cleanly the owner may be, these articles may be infected with microbes, which will infect your scalp. It is far easier to catch hair microbes than it is to get rid of them, and a single stroke of an infected comb or brush may well lead to baldness. Never try on anybody else's hat. Many a hat-band is a breeding place for microbes.

If you happen to be troubled with dandruff, itching scalp, falling hair or baldness, we have a remedy which we believe will completely rid you of these troubles. We are so sure of this that we offer it to you with the understanding that it will cost you nothing for the trial if it does not produce the results we claim. This remedy is called Rexall "93" Hair Tonic. We honestly believe it to be the most scientific remedy for scalp and hair troubles, and we know of nothing else that equals it for effectiveness, because of the results it has produced in thousands of cases.

Rexall "93" Hair Tonic is devised to banish dandruff, restore natural color when the hair has been brought about by disease, and make the hair naturally silky, soft and glossy. It does this because it stimulates the hair follicles, destroys the germ matter, and brings about a free, healthy circulation of blood, which nourishes the hair roots, causing them to tighten and grow new hair. We want everybody who has any trouble with hair or scalp to know that we think that Rexall "93" Hair Tonic is the best hair tonic and restorative in existence, and no one should scold at or doubt this statement until they have put our claims to a fair test, with the understanding that they pay us nothing for the remedy if it does not give full and complete satisfaction in every particular. Two sizes, 50 cents and $1.00. Remember, you can obtain Rexall Remedies in Jansville only at our store—The Rexall Store, The Smith Drug Co., 11 West Milwaukee St.

GOOD time to think of underwear; you'll have to do it soon. We've a medium weight Lewis garment at $2.00 that we're rather anxious to have you see. We'll show you other things from $1 up to the finest unions.

Wilson Shirts in all the new weaves, $1.50 to $3.50.

BEST hat ever made to sell at $3 is right here; and a lot of it, too. All the favored shades, in rough and smooth textures; in Austrian velours. Now graceful shapes that "hold up." Great line of Stetsons $3.50 and up. Stetson Special, $5. Golf and auto caps, $1. up.
